Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I've been living in Tianjin for two months. I got a copy of Tianjin Plus magazine in the Sheraton Hotel Tianjin and found it listed with useful information to help me get more familiar with Tianjin. Can you recommend any outdoor places with a good atmosphere to get together with friends and have a few drinks during the hot summer months in Tianjin? Thanks.

Yours,
Brian

Young Enough to Dream

Int'l School Children's Day Portrayals

The month of June is a time of anticipation as the school semester comes to an end. However, one special day is often overlooked at the beginning of this month.

If you were to ask a panel of kids and adults (and this is exactly what Tianjin Plus did), "What special day happens in the beginning of June?" you would get an interesting mix of blank stares and amusing responses.

Maybe another question can allow the answer to this question to be slightly more obvious. What building has the most storeys? The resolution can be found in every international school in Tianjin. The building with the most storeys is the library. Who can you find in the library? Children.

Tianjin Plus took a visit to several places throughout the city to discover what will be happening on Children's Day. Learn about the creation of the holiday, laugh along with children plus their cute sayings as they explain the holiday and save with our list of promotional activities in the city.

Children's Day

The roots of this holiday come from the Republic of Turkey. The original date of 23 April was reserved to emphasize the importance of children and their influence in the world of tomorrow. The first President of the Republic of Turkey, Mustafa Kemal Pasha Atatürk pushed forth a modernization and cultural revitalization agenda during his term.

One of his many successful policies was having a nation wide day for children. The idea of responding to the world's youth spread quickly throughout Europe. In 1925 at the World Conference for the Wellbeing of Children in Geneva the holiday became an international celebration.

Tianjin International School

"Celebrating Family"

Located in the Huayuan Area, Tianjin International school is home of the eagles. The interview with the elementary school children brought smiles and laughter.

Children's day is, "Something that involves children. It is also to show how important family is." Even in the eyes of children family is a celebration and a challenge.

"It is kind of hard being a child. It is kind of fun and not [fun]. It is fun to play and read books. It is hard not being able to do everything you want to do."

What activities do these eagles like to do? When asked what they would like as the head eagle different students answered with, "I would like a book." "I would like the biggest soccer field." "I would like a stuffed animal." "I would like all the Care Bears."

The school will be having special in class activities to celebrate the holiday.

Teda International School

"Mom Don't Nag!"

Tanggu does not fall short of cute loveable children. The Teda International School is full of international children at their best. When asked about reasons behind the holiday, the students of Teda International School gave very insightful moral messages to inspire themselves and other youth. Their messages to the youth include:

- When your mom nags, run away.
- Enjoy your Children's Day while you have it.
- Make a friend.
- If you don't have something good to say about others don't say it at all.
- Respect the earth.
- If you can do something today, then why do it to tomorrow? – Benjamin Franklin
- If you can dream it, you can do it. –Walt Disney

Favourite subjects of this institution of gifted children include science, social studies, geography and art. Extra-curricular activities seem to be available each day, even on children's Day as each student describes their daily routine with golf terminology. Here it would not be strange to hear questions such as, "How did you do on your Par 4 today?"

The champions of this academic course on their special day would like a dog, no annoying siblings for one day, the entire series of their favourite comic, and a personal golf chipping course. The amateur golf pro (the student) added, "I don't like others to chip with me because they give me pressure."

Children's day will be celebrated with in class activities and surprises.

International School of Tianjin

"I Want 3,000 Ice Creams!"

Travelling across the city to Jinnan district we came across the International School of Tianjin (IST). IST had a full panel greet us to answer and ask us some questions.

When asked why 1 June was a special day, one scholar replied, "My sister's birthday is on 1 June." Everyone knew what the holiday was. However, this panel of children however had different thoughts about how the holiday should be celebrated.

Ellie: We should have one day off for children's day. No, we should have one day off every week. It should be Wednesday.

Matt: Not Wednesday because it is a short day.

Storm: We could have Monday off instead.

When asked if they would do extra work so they could have a day off they responded in unison, "It depends on the work. On children's day I know what the homework will be. The homework assignment is to have no homework."

If there was no homework, where would teachers go? "The teacher's would go home."

Wouldn't that be Teacher's Day then? "Children would be in charge. The kids can teach the teachers. The oldest student in the school would be the principal."

If able to control the world for the day, one student would want, "3,000 ice-creams, 3,000 cupcakes... everything in the world!" Another would want a puppy.

It was then decided that this day should also welcome the animal kingdom, especially puppies. What would they do? Puppies on children's day watch television and play with their children. "Children could swap places with the dogs and then the teachers give our homework to the dogs."

IST will have in class activities to celebrate the holiday.

Maple Leaf International School

"It's Hard Being a Child!"

Also located in Tanggu is a cooperative between Canada and China, the Tianjin Teda Maple Leaf International School. Maple Leaf offers the best in Eastern and Western education.

The kids at Maple Leaf view Children's day as a day "Where children can get some presents and children are very happy." The rulers of this kingdom would like a new video game system, the DSI and a class with the best teacher of the school.

Playing DSI and receiving gifts are great, but is being a child just all fun and games? A pupil quickly disputed this statement with, "It's difficult being a child because of so much homework."

Maple Leaf's next generation also had plenty words of wisdom. "On children's day I will be the parent and they will be the child. They will listen to me and give me so much money." These children seem to understand exactly what it means to be a parent.

A second student when asked what words he would like to share with others gave a quick smile and said, "I am a genius!" Other career desires for these students included being a scientist and a martial arts teacher.

Maple Leaf has organized several competitions to encourage the growth of children. The months of May and June offer an English Competition and Art Festival.

Korean International School

"Sports Day"

Located in Xiqing District, Korean International School Tianjin (KIST) is the learning ground for many of the city's largest expatriate group – Koreans. While walking the hallways of this school you will encounter Korean, English and Chinese. Mastering three languages is tough work for these kids.

In our interview with the children of KIST, the children were very well-mannered and creative. For anyone that has been around youth, you learn to expect the unexpected. When asking the elementary students of KIST about what was so special on 1 June, the response was classic.

Three students looked at each other, giggled and remained silent. After asking the question a second time, one student said, "I don't know." After asking the question a third time, the students shot a look of annoyance that question was so out of date. "1 June is Children's Day but we celebrate it on 5 May!" The statement was followed by giggles. How could we be so uninformed?

To celebrate the holiday, KIST put on a school wide event on 5 May. The opening ceremony had the school rehearse a parade routine followed by athletic performances on the school track. The closing ceremony made each kid a winner with the

Tianjin Yinghua International School

"I Love Homework!"

One of Wuqing district's finest places of education, Yinghua International School welcomed Tianjin Plus to talk with a handful of their elementary students.

One of the things children love to do is play. At Yinghua each day starts with a morning exercise routine. If you think about what kids like to do the least, you may think of things such as chores, eating vegetables and paying mortgages (Oops, the list item isn't for kids). These students are different in that they love to do what most kids hate - homework!

In the past the children at this school played games on their special day. Their favourite games included hopscotch and shuttlecock.

Besides games, if given the chance to be king or queen of the world for one day they would command their subjects to buy clothes, give high speed bicycles and have a sumptuous all you can eat rice buffet.

To celebrate the holiday, Yinghua will be holding an entertainment festival for all students. Each class will have a performance for everyone to enjoy.

Rego International School

"I Want a Test on Children's Day!"

Rego International School will be attending Children's Day events of the Tianjin Teenage Activity Centre for the 1 June holiday.

It seems in many countries of the world this holiday does not exist. "We don't have it in Spain or Egypt." However they agreed they needed the holiday so children could do what grown-ups can do. Adults have so much freedom. They can go for walks, have parties and take days off of work.

The rulers of this school would like a spaceship to go into space, the ability to fly, and chase what most people want - money. These are not the only requests to their subjects. They would also like to eat mounds of strawberry or chocolate cake for the June celebrations. The last special item is that every student should have to study and have a test. What dedicated children.

Department Store Promotions

Schools are not the only ones celebrating Children's Day. Department stores are also holding promotions to keep children smiling while parents joyfully discuss how to empty their wallets.

Far Eastern Department Store will have several promotions.

1. From 24 May to 3 June spend over 500CNY in one day in the children's clothing area and receive a coupon of 50CNY.
2. From 29 May – 1 June will have balloons available for children.
3. 1 June – Release Your Dream; Hug Summer Activity. 15 participants (children five years and up plus parents) will be invited to draw your dream on a DIY kite for family fun.
4. The food courts of B1 and 7th floor's Mei Shi Cafeteria will offer children's food items.
5. Basement Seafood Supermarket will offer children's healthy food items to help parents solve kid's food related problems.

WELLINGTON COLLEGE

For more information on the College and the admissions procedure, please visit the school website at www.wellingtoncollegeintl.cn. Any further enquiries please email to info@wellingtoncollegeintl.cn.

Welcome to Wellington College International Tianjin!

Wellington College is a partnership school of Wellington College near London, the highly prestigious, 150-year-old independent school founded by Queen Victoria to commemorate the Duke of Wellington who led Britain to victory at the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. Now, nearly two hundred years after Waterloo, the first Wellington College overseas will open its doors to its first intake of students, aged 3 to 13, in August 2011.

Our goal for Wellington College is to become the leading international school in China. In achieving this goal, we recognise that, while a student's academic performance is always central, the building of responsibility, respect for others and self-esteem, so vital for success at adulthood, comes equally from participation in the many other areas of school life. Our wonderful state-of-the-art campus in the heart of Tianjin provides the very best in facilities, while our teaching staff, fully-qualified, highly motivated and drawn from all parts of the English-speaking world, Wellington College has always had an excellent name in British education, but under the inspirational leadership of Dr Anthony Seldon, it has acquired an enviable reputation for innovation and experimentation, producing a stimulating educational environment for everybody in the school.

At the heart of the Wellington College ethos is the idea of child-centred learning, or as Dr Seldon describes it, "To flourish in the knowledge economy of the 21st century, children need to have the confidence, strategies and skills to lead their own learning and not be solely reliant on teachers to impart knowledge." This will be our approach to all forms of learning at Wellington College International Tianjin.

Dr Anthony Seldon,
Master of Wellington College
in the UK

Wellington College's opening in August 2011 is a very exciting educational opportunity for the College in the UK, the city of Tianjin and all our future students and parents. Together we can and will create the best international school in China with a worldwide reputation for excellence. In August 2011, Wellington will admit students at all year groups from ages 3 to 13. Early registration is recommended and will commence in September 2010.

For more information on Wellington and the admissions procedure, please visit the school website at www.wellingtoncollegeintl.cn. Please email any further enquiries to info@wellingtoncollegeintl.cn.

Don't Do That!

Dealing with Toddler Tantrums

After a hard day of childcare (cooking, cleaning and singing all the nursery rhymes you can handle), with the little one you make your weekly trip to the grocery store. A list has already been prepared to get the family in and out as quickly as possible. As you check off the items you hear a crashing sound and notice a sea of eyes glaring in your direction.

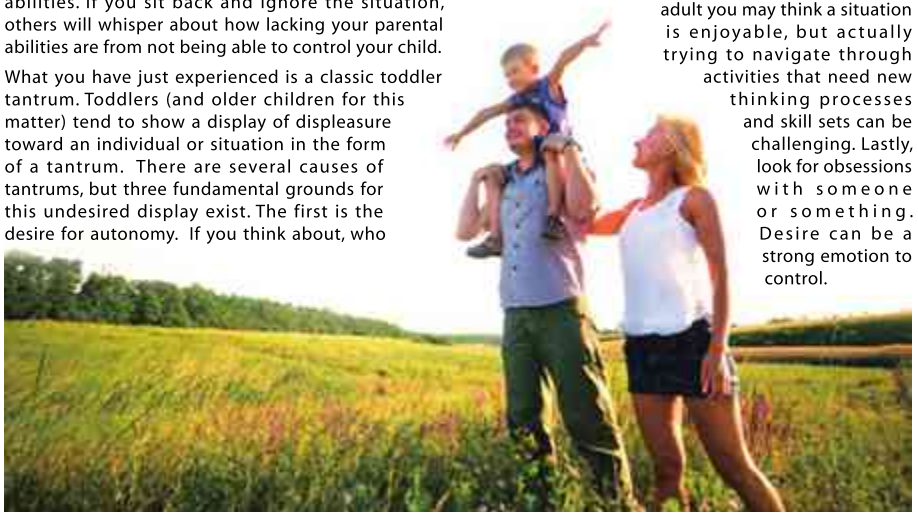
Besides the embarrassment of dealing with your child causing a display to tumble, you notice that something is in their hands that you did not agree to, nor have on your all important shopping list. You try to pry it from their hands, but then it begins to happen.

It starts with a squeal that could frighten off Dracula, followed by jumping and hitting. As you begin to use your "firm" parent voice to command respect, your toddler does the unthinkable. They drop to the floor, kick their feet in the air like a track athlete in training and start to hold their breath with a look of disgust on their face.

As a parent, how to handle a situation such as this? If you publicly physically chastise the child, then the audience that is already gawking at your family will feel even more disdainful toward your parenting abilities. If you sit back and ignore the situation, others will whisper about how lacking your parental abilities are from not being able to control your child.

What you have just experienced is a classic toddler tantrum. Toddlers (and older children for this matter) tend to show a display of displeasure toward an individual or situation in the form of a tantrum. There are several causes of tantrums, but three fundamental grounds for this undesired display exist. The first is the desire for autonomy. If you think about, who gets bossed around more than a two or three year old? All their decisions are made for them by the dictators we call parents. A second cause is because of being in the process of cognitive development, young children may not be able to express their desires or reasons for wanting to do something well. The expression may come out several ways, but not the way that would make an adult understand their logic. A third, but not final cause can be lack of previous discipline. If something is okay on one occasion but not on another, it can be confusing for this budding mind.

In trying to cure this embarrassing outburst, it may be good to recognize some common symptoms. A tantrum can be right around the corner if your child is fatigued or not well rested. If you see your child beginning to exhibit symptoms of tiredness, as a parent take note. Next you should note if there are any unresolved frustrations or problems in your toddler's life. Examples may be off sleeping schedules, poor nutrition or sibling territorial battles. Anything unresolved will find a way to express itself. New experiences also may cause a reaction. As a mature adult you may think a situation is enjoyable, but actually trying to navigate through activities that need new thinking processes and skill sets can be challenging. Lastly, look for obsessions with someone or something. Desire can be a strong emotion to control.



With all this being said, there is hope. Four simple to implement solutions can change this nightmare into a small possible reality.

1) Don't give into tantrums. In the short-term it may hurt your heart, but in the long-term it will have huge dividends. Set firm conditions and disciplinary boundaries.

2) Divert attention. Before the child gets too occupied with something, show them another object. Use curiosity to work in your favour.

3) Work with your child to understand what they wish to express. It is not easy being a three-year old. Ask them questions to try to better understand what they are trying to communicate.

4) Consistent enforcement. As a parent or guardian, make sure that the rule is the law. Do not allow the exception to become the rule unless necessary.

Trivia Quiz

Klodi Xhani
(people call him Xhani though which is pronounced like Johnny)
23, Albanian, student at Nankai University

Favourite place to grab a bite.
In Tianjin, it has to be Bawarchi.

Where do you spend your kuais at night?
Hahaha. If not for food and drinks, probably TaoBao!

Better to go out on a Friday or a Saturday in Tianjin?
Regardless, if you ask me, the party is going to be just as crazy either of those nights.

Favourite things to do when you have free time.
Depends on my mood really. It can range from spending time with my girlfriend to doing absolutely nothing.

Sports are ok on TV or you practice any?
Football wouldn't be so much fun just watching it on TV. Playing with the LaoWai United guys, now that's fun.

Where do you and your friends usually hang?
It used to be at "the Head" in the Medical University but then everybody started getting busy so now there is no usual place.

The perfect spot in Tianjin. Lost in the Italian District, it's great, kind of makes you wonder if you're still in China.

Where do you usually go on a date? Are you conventional or you have or tricks?
I don't understand the question, I don't really go on dates.

Playing in your iPod.
Lately, mostly "Lamb of God"... Great band...

Book you're currently reading or all-time favourite.
Currently reading Robert Ludlum's "The Bourne Identity" but my all-time favourite is Alexander Dumas' "Count of Monte Cristo", probably because Dante runs off with an Albanian Princess in the end.

Strangest thing you've seen in town. The amount of times I've been asked if Albania is in Africa. I don't get it...

Last movie you watched.
Hahaha, the 1982 "Porky's"... Great movie, really great...

Worst and best about Tianjin.
The worst has to be the distance from home, and everything that comes with that. The best has to be the amount of people from every corner of the world that you get to meet.

Leysi Lorenzo, 22, Cuba, Chinese Language Student at Tianjin University

Best restaurant in Tianjin.
I know it's not a restaurant but I love to go and eat at Paris Baguette, in the Magnetic Capital (Shidai Aocheng).

Favourite drink.
A very cold mojito with a lot of mint.

Summer calls for what in Tianjin?
For the mountains, the botanical garden, and to explore as much as I can new places all over this huge city.

Favourite hairdresser.
I don't even know the name but it's a small but very good one located at the corner of Weijin Lu and An Shan Xi Dao.

Favourite place to hang with your friends.
Definitely Starbucks.

On a date.
I'd like to go an elegant and quiet restaurant.

Book you're currently reading.
The "Little Prince", by Antoine de Saint-Exupéry.

Last movie you watched.
"Across the Universe", brilliant!

Worst and best about Tianjin.
The weather and the unstoppable pollution in the city. One of the things I like the most is the cheap prices (laughs).

Art Inspiration

The C-92 Art District

As summer reaches full intensity we transfer our actions from indoor games to outdoor creativity. While exploring the great outdoors one may be inspired to step into the world of creativity and new heights.

C92 Art District is a hidden art area tucked behind the busy streets of Tianjin. The park is located near the intersection of Changjiang Dao and Hongqi Lu. The gate of the district can be seen from the overpass from the mammoth letters "C92."

Inside the district you will find a unique layout of art vendors, local exhibitions, sculptures and the occasional wondering artist. The different seasons bring different attractions with summer belonging to natural themes.

Surrounding the district you will see the contrast of situations similar to an artistic painting. Without contrast or difference there is no room for imagination. Five hundred meters from the district is Changjiang Park, a family favourite for its wide collection of gardens. As bright as the summer flowers may be, directly across from C-92 are dull and simple car dealerships dampening the atmosphere. They may not inspire colourful thinking, but lead you to organize your black and white thoughts on your cranial canvas.

The junction of Hongqi Lu and Changjiang Dao, Nankai District
南开区红旗路与长江道交口
Daily, 08:00 – 19:00

If needing room or board, the district also has local family restaurants and an economical motel within walking distance.

While the C-92 art district is not quite the equivalent to its Beijing counterpart, it is a beginning to a city that is growing in not only economics but creativity.

Euro Place Restaurant & Bar 欧之家餐吧

Soft music, mural adorned walls and schnitzel

Cute and cosy are likely descriptions for this undiscovered treasure, but the most striking features of Euro Place are the warmth and friendliness. Although the dining room is simple, it's quite comfortable, and the hand painted murals of European landscapes are a nice touch. A live band graces the stage from 21:00-00:00 nightly, and although the restaurant typically closes around midnight, they're apt to stay open longer if the bar guests want to go dancing with the devil until the wee hours of the morning.

The menu at Euro Place is primarily German, featuring fare from various regions of Deutschland. Schnitzels, German style sausage and a modest selection of steaks will keep carnivores at bay; a range of salads and pasta are available as well. The rump steak is topped with herb butter and is particularly appetizing, while the gulaschsuppe is an absolute must. Keep an eye on your calendar as well, as Euro Place prepares a proper brunch on the first Sunday of every month. The kitchen staff is Chinese but the owners went through the trouble of bringing in a half dozen hausfraus from the motherland to train the crew in the way of preparing authentic German cuisine. Any restaurant that serves German food will naturally boast a wide selection of German beers as well. All of this having been said; Euro Place is a great place to have a glass of wine and dinner before hitting Tianjin for a night out with friends.

Drei Kronen The world-famous brauhaus opens in Tianjin

Recently opened in January, the world's oldest heritage brewery joins Tianjin's growing segment of international restaurants. Drei Kronen rests conveniently opposite Tianjin Train Station and is discreetly tucked away in the Jin Wan Plaza. As you approach, you'll be greeted by the stainless-steel brew tanks on display in the front window. Brew master Hans Gerner's beer selection features Schwarzekrone (dark), felsenweisse (wheat beer) and helles (lager) which are served in enormous steins. Featuring authentic Bavarian cuisine, the hefty portions at Drei Kronen aren't for the faint of heart. Start with a fresh gurken salat mit tomaten and then move onto the hearty gulaschsuppe. The Bayerische brauhaus platte is suitable for two, although the manager, Sven, claims it's a single serving for a true Deutchlander. Piled high with pork knuckle, meatloaf, pork loin, thuringer sausage, frankfurter, grilled chicken, sauerkraut and mashed potato, even the most ravenous carnivore's appetite will be fulfilled. End dinner with a crème brulee, although you may find yourself fighting for the final bite if you decide to share it. If you don't have an appetite, Drei Kronen features a "2 for 1" Happy Hour from 18:00-21:00. Order a couple steins and relax in the "biergarten" that overlooks the river and train station.

Boiling 100 Cooking All Night Long

Sometimes the biggest obstacle for a new venue is shaking off the reputation of its predecessor. The previous venue occupying the ground floor of Heng Hua Da Sha was Sugar Club; a dated relic that was a bit of a punch line for anyone that had the misfortune of visiting. Just a few moments spent at Boiling 100 and you will realize that the new ownership was serious about erasing any memories of Sugar. The result is a slick looking and uber-trendy club; Tianjin club kids fill the booths, no doubt drinking cognac and green tea, beautiful women tend the bar, and dancers keep the audience's attention if the conversation wanes.

The club opened its doors in mid-April, and although they are still trying to build a consistent clientele base on the weekdays, weekends are busy. The music is a mix of hip-hop, Chinese and Western pop, house and techno, and drink specials are specifically aimed at bringing more foreigners in to spend their hard earned Renminbi. Discounted drinks are offered before ten, but the main attraction is the "two-for-one" deal for laowai and the special price for bottle service. If you want to take the party to the "next level," roughly CNY 800 will ensure you a VIP table enough cognac to flood a small village.

The club is located next to Xia Wa Fang metro station, which you can take on the way there, but if you want to take it home, it'll likely be when the sun is rising.

Qba Bar A Caliente Spot at The Westin Tianjin

The second floor of The Westin Tianjin is now sweeping the feet off all visitors and guests with nothing but Latino tastes and rhythms.

At Qba you'll always have the chance of savouring authentic food, drinks and music. If you thought your mother's carne asada was the best in the world, visit Qba and have a taste of the homiest flavours right here in Tianjin. Say farewell to sweet meat and embrace the real Latin picante. The cocktails are said to be divine, and guess what, they really are. The signature ginger mojito, the perfect caipirinha made with the best Brazilian cachaça are the perfect start for a night of non-stop dancing.

Surrounded by a vibrant, wooden decoration, the atmosphere brings you at all times to a Cuban fiesta. To the sounds of the Paraguayan band RIAMBA your night is about to start rumbaing!

And Qba's parties would never be the real thing if they didn't have a Cuban cigar. Cohibas, Montecristo and Romeo y Julieta are the best of the very best. At the Cigar Lounge you'll have the chance of having a very dedicated staff to answer your questions about the real puro and to let you savour this fine pleasure.

Every day there's a new offer for guests. Make sure you try the cocktails and let the Latino in you enjoy!

Tianjin Is Happening Now!

THE LATIN PARTY AT LA VILLA

When Latinos Go Out

The Latin Party hosted by Cabaret at La Villa marked the beginning of summer fun in Tianjin.

The band was Sabor Latino from Venezuela, while the DJ was from Colombia, the bartenders from Mexico, Cuba and Colombia, and the audience from all over the world. With the sounds of Latino rhythms, no one wanted to miss one of the most blasting parties Tianjin has ever seen.

Cabaret is the newest attraction in town. In the heart of the Italian Quarter, the club, with a spectacular band, outstanding decoration and authentic drinks, was packed with hundreds of expats thirsty for a very hot night. And Cabaret delivered. Dancing contests, genuine laughter, calor bailando el reggaeton and cheerful conversations in the balconies were the successful ingredients for this general delight.

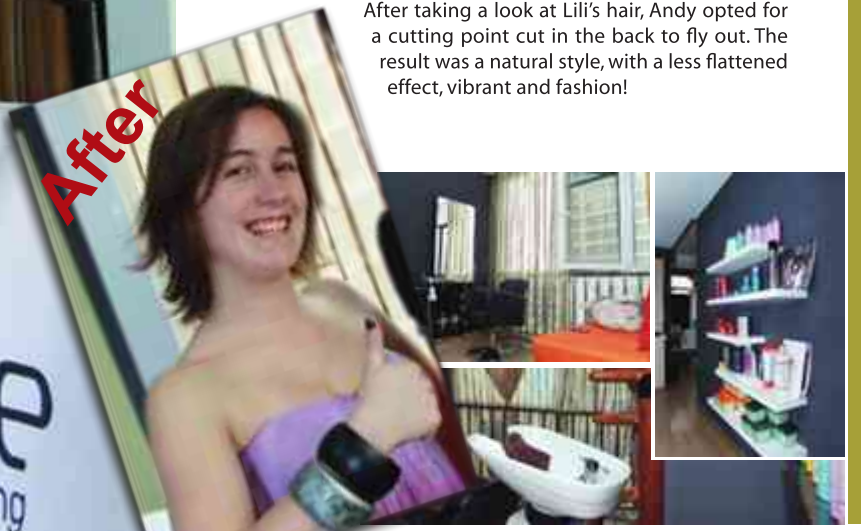
A guaranteed good time there are no more reasons to say Tianjin's nightlife doesn't happen. Cabaret at La Villa is hip and happening!

AY HAIRSALON MAKEOVER

Andy Boosts Lili's Look

Lili comes from Portugal and she's a Chinese Language Student at TFSU. A few moths ago she decided to go to the hairdresser and flatten her curly hair for a party. The result was an intensive Straight Therapy, and my-hair-isn't-curly-anymore shock.

After taking a look at Lili's hair, Andy opted for a cutting point cut in the back to fly out. The result was a natural style, with a less flattened effect, vibrant and fashion!



When it comes to everyday life affairs, when a foreigner arrives in Tianjin with the intention of staying for a few months, eventually they will ask themselves "where can I go to a hairdresser that will get what I want and understand what I'm saying"? Dear fellow expatriate, search no more. AY Hairsalon is the best choice in town.

Owned by Tianjin local Andy, AY is a chance to get your needs heard and definitely understood. After working for nine years at the Sheraton Hotel Tianjin, more than ninety percent of his faithful customers are foreigners. In practical terms, English-speaking Andy gets better than anyone else what a foreigner wants, what a foreigner needs. As he says "Chinese like cute, Westerns like sexy, and I can give them that". The products are from Germany, the US and Hong Kong such as Schwarzkopf, TIGI and These.

The parlour is cool, elegant, fashionable, quiet and clean (all his tools are sterilized), and you can even enjoy a drink while improving your looks. And the treatments are just to crave for: Mineral Teatree Restoring Mask, Spa Relaxing Essence Treatment, etc.

My point, Andy is talented and he's the best choice for newcomers that don't have an idea on where to go, and for those that have been here longer but would finally want to see style actually working on their hair as well.

AY's strengths:

- English-speaking
- Appointment only
- Western notions of style and fashion
- Understanding of Tianjin's weather specificities and its influence on westerner's hair.

NATURE VERSUS SCIENCE

Interview with Xun Xianghong, Chinese External Medicine Doctor at Tianjin GongAn Hospital

Did you always want to be a doctor? Doctors run in my family. My maternal grandfather was a doctor of internal medicine. He always had the hope that his grandsons would study medicine but they never did. So when I showed interest in medicine he passed on his skill and knowledge to me. However, I did not want to be a specialist of internal medicine, but found more interest in external medicine.

Is it more difficult being a doctor or preparing to be one? I think it is more difficult preparing to be a doctor. Becoming a doctor needs many foundations. You must understand Chinese medicine and western medicine. It is not like in the west where you only need to understand western medicine. You must show a mastery of both. You must have internal and external medicine fundamentals as well. So there are many basics that you need to prepare. You can not be just a specialist.

What makes Chinese medicine unique? Chinese medicine is unique in the methods used for healing and recovery. In western medicine they first find out what may be the problem and then try to heal it.

However what can you do if you can find no definite result? Chinese medicine uses the body' s pulse to determine where in the body the abnormal behaviour is. For example if your heart has a problem then we can feel that your blood is not circulating smoothly. Chinese medicine also works on curing the root of the problem and not its symptoms.

How do you deal with the stress of being a doctor? It is as simple as implementing my interest. I listen to music, read books and relax. I believe if I was an emergency doctor the pressure would be enormous, but as a Chinese doctor I don't feel there is a lot of pressure. It is a simply a matter of adjusting.

What difference do you see between Chinese and foreign patients? Chinese doctors when deciding the dosage of medicine depend on the physical characteristics of the patient. When treating foreign patients the amount of medicine is often increased due to commonly having more mass.

If you were a medical instrument, which would you be and why? I would say acupuncture needles because it is quick and effective. Before 1997 many individuals just trusted western medicine, but after westerners could not cure many neural diseases and saw how quick and powerful Chinese medicine was, they began to believe.

Some people think Chinese medicine isn't scientific enough. However I think science can't explain Chinese medicine.

TIANJIN'S TOP GYMS

No time to waste, summer is here.

January 1st seems like it was just moments ago, doesn't it? For those that didn't follow through on their New Year's resolutions to join and gym and get in shape, it's never too late. Let Tianjin Plus help guide you through the options.

Powerhouse Gym boasts four locations in Tianjin. The flagship location is in the Binjiang Shopping Center near Xiao Bai Lou, but clearly the best of the four is the newest facility, situated in the Tianjin Olympic Stadium. Vast, well lit and clean, Powerhouse offers ample treadmills and stair-climbers, Nautilus training machines, an Olympic sized pool and half-court basketball. Pilates, Yoga, and a wide range of aerobic classes are offered at various times seven days a week. This all comes at a premium cost of about CNY 4500; the Xiao Bai Lou location is roughly 1/3 of the cost.

There are a few quality gyms at a substantially lower price as well; Ling Chao Gym is perched on the fifth floor of the An Shan Xi Dao Digital Mall. Three stories high and providing plenty of exercise options, this gym seems to have the most popular spin and yoga classes on this list. Bustling with Chinese and foreigners, Ling Chao provides classes for virtually any discipline, ranging from Muai Thai Boxing, Judo and even Jeet Kundo.

Another noteworthy option is Qi Dian Gym on Binjiang Dao. It's centrally located and is just a short walk from the Yingkou Dao Metro stop. On the fifth floor of the You Yi Shopping Center, Qi Dian has all of the equipment necessary to start sculpting the perfect beach body. Although there is not a pool here, the facilities are modern and they have trainers available who can give you a personalized workout plan suited to your body type and work-out goals.

The pre-requisites for choosing a gym are: location, variety of activities and cleanliness. These three gyms rank high in all categories. So, turn off the Chinese soaps, put down the Haagen-Daas and go get involved before summer sneaks up on you.

Past Present and Future Gongfu

Shifu Zhou Jing Xuan discusses traditional and modern wushu and his philosophies about the essence of gongfu

Master Zhou Jingxuan is the Head Teacher for Shang Wu Zhai Academy in Tianjin. Schooled as a child at Xi Gu Park in the Hongqiao District, he learned fighting styles ranging from Pi Gua Zhang and Jin Gang Ba Shi to Ba Ji Quan. He founded the Academy and accepted students with the aim of preserving the art of gongfu, one of China's most prized cultural disciplines. Recently, Tianjin Plus caught up with shifu to gain some insight into his thoughts on wushu and its place in Chinese heritage.

You started practicing gongfu when you were nine years old. What advice do you have for someone not starting at such a young age? The first thing you must find out is the purpose of the individual, find out if he wants to learn to fight. Gongfu has three main functions: the first function is for fighting and defense, second is for spiritual enlightenment and the third is to enhance performance, or basic exercise. All three functions require both external practice and internal practice.

Are there many differences between traditional and modern wushu? Modern gongfu is under the control of the Chinese government's policy. The purpose has been changed. The goal is to get points and high scores in competitions. The focus has changed, also to make it very beautiful and artistic. Traditionally, gongfu was used for one purpose, to kill your enemy in a battle. Traditional gongfu is more about power; it focused on building the strength and spirit of the soldiers to prepare them for war.

Foreigners think that Shoalin is the birth place of gongfu; what do Chinese (who practice gongfu) think about it? Shoalin is not the birthplace of gongfu, but was traditionally the gathering place for all different forms of gongfu. Gongfu has been passed down from our ancestors, the soldiers getting ready for war. The groups used gongfu to kill each other in battles. Various people, including soldiers and families would gather in Shoalin Si (temple) and share their knowledge. Shaolin Si helped one of the emperors in the Tang dynasty to gain his empire.

What is the link between internal and external martial arts establishing goals and ways to practice? Internal practice develops your spirit and your soul; it focuses on balancing your qi gong. External practice is intended to exercise your muscle and bones. Strength and hard bones are necessary elements of gongfu. External gongfu is more physically demanding. Its focus is on building toughness and the coordinated performance of your entire body. Conversely, internal gongfu is more mild and soft.

What is the relationship between gongfu and Buddhism as you see it? Buddhism is not a necessary part of gongfu. There is one sect of Buddhism, Chan Buddhism which has a close relationship with gongfu, but it's not necessary to practice Buddhism and gongfu together.

What is the essence of gongfu; how would you describe it? The essence is culture, but the way to express this culture is through fighting.

Gongfu* is such an important part of Chinese culture and heritage; what do you think is its future? Traditional wushu has two paths. The first is to meld with various other forms of martial arts, such as karate and tae kwon do, similar to MMA. The other path is that it will remain pure. In this path it will continue to influence Chinese people's way of thinking and their culture.

Master Zhou and his students practice regularly at Tianjin Traditional Medicine University, off An Shan Xi Dao. His passion for teaching gongfu is immediately evident; he is keen to share his vast knowledge of this sacred art, thus preserving the rich history of wushu.

Best Selling Cars of the Year

The 3rd Automobile Cultural Festival and 2010 Tianjin Spring Automobile Expo

In the bicycle capital of China, we are seeing less of the local special commodity and more of the new-age one – the automobile. From 28 April until 3 May, Tianjin's Olympic Stadium played host to one of the largest auto exhibitions in northern China. For a mere 10CNY all guests were welcome to explore the wonderful world of auto.

The world's finest brands all had their best on display. The 2010 models of Toyota, Volkswagen, Mazda, Cadillac, Peugeot, BMW and Nissan were available for buying, sampling or just being a fan and taking photos. The Chinese brands of Xiali and Geely also had strong representation at the event.

For customers seeking more affordable options, the expo featured a used car section with over ten vendors to choose from. The used cars were not just a display of no longer desired models, but of recent models with nice discount packages. In the used car area, there were also vintage cars from the 70's attracting visitors from the current star standards.

Buying a car is not as easy as simply picking out the car you like. You must also think about financing and insurance. Several banks and insurance providers also walked the halls greeting customers and trying to earn some commission.

If needing a rest, a VIP Lounge was available for a small fee, with comfortable seating and mini desks. Since all guests are important, located next to the lounge was a snack area with crowd favourites of potato chips, hot dogs, iced teas and sodas.

To meet entertainment needs, several performances were available throughout the day. Car models for adults and a panda mascot for kids walked around the exhibition hall to bring smiles to all.

Jiayi Furniture Market 加宜家居

Making Yourself at Home

There is no place like home. The Bai Huo Da Lou area of Tianjin has one of the city's greatest furniture markets just around the corner. Jiayi Furniture Market located on the commercial street of Nan Men Wai Dajie offers a wide range of interior decorating needs.

Jiayi has four floors packed with a variety of products to allow any home owner or renter to be satisfied. Jiayi provides over fourteen main categories to easily lead customers to their area of possible purchase. If looking for modern or classical, European or American, living room or dining room, this furniture market has it all.

If in need of furniture for outside the home, Jiayi has vendors dedicated to office furniture. Browse office equipment, desks and tools to make any office layout have a professional touch.

Most inter-city furniture markets focus on home and office commodities, but reserve a tiny amount of space for the growing little people. Jiayi has children merchandise located throughout the second and third floors.

Transportation options are plentiful with ten public buses (172, 628, 635, 640, 676, 837, 840, 849, 855, 961) bringing you to the front door. Belonging to a well-known area taking a taxi is very practical and a spacious parking lot makes taking a personal vehicle convenient and safe.

Go to Jiayi Furniture to find your feeling of home.

Budapest

The Pearl of the Danube

One of the most beautiful cities in the world, Budapest is a jewel of central Europe. A union of two cities, Buda and Pest, on opposite sides of the river Danube, Budapest traces its roots back to the 9th Century, though the Romans colonised nearby Obuda centuries before.Its 20th Century history, meanwhile, encapsulates the history of Europe, from the tumults of the First World War and the subsequent fragmentation of the great Austro-Hungarian Empire, to the rise of Hitler and the Iron Curtain partition of Europe in the years after 1945. Since 1989, Budapest has been the capital of the Third Republic of Hungary.

Architecture

Much of central Budapest dates from its glory years, from the 1873 unification, when it became the second capital of the Hapsburg Empire after Vienna, until 1914. Numerous magnificent examples of Romantic architecture abound. The Parliament Building, the third-largest in the world and formerly the largest, lies on the Pest side of the banks of the River Danube. Its gothic style somewhat resembles the British Houses of Parliament, though the Hungarian Parliament has a domed rather than arching roof. St. Stephen's Basilica, which still contains the mummified, thousand year-old right hand of St. Stephen, founder of Hungary, is within easy walking distance. Castle Hill, on the Buda side, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site, as are the River Danube embankments and Andrassy Ut, which hosts spectacular Neo-renaissance mansions and townhouses featuring fine facades and interiors. It is also one of Budapest's main shopping streets, with fine cafes, restaurants, theatres, and luxury boutiques. The city is also home to the largest synagogue in Europe (Dohány Street Synagogue) and the largest medicinal baths (Széchenyi Medicinal Bath).

Spas

With the city built on the world's largest thermal water cave system, Budapest has long been a city of spas, with Roman ruins still in evidence, and some baths built during the Turkish period (1541-1686) still in operation. Some of the finest include the Gellert Baths, with its immaculately preserved Art Nouveau interior, including colourful mosaics, marble columns, stained-glass windows and statues, and the Rudas Baths. These are located in the narrow strip of land between Gellért Hill and the River Danube and feature an octagonal pool over which light is thrown from a cupola of 10m diameter, supported by eight pillars. The waters contain calcium, magnesium, hydrocarbonate, alkalis, chloride, sulphate and fluoride, and come from thermal springs with water temperature of around 38℃.

History

As suggested above, Budapest in many ways encapsulates the tumultuous history of Europe in the 20th Century. The proud second capital of the Austro-Hungarian Empire in 1914 and a major world city, by 1920 Budapest was part of a republic of a mere seven million people, having lost some nearly three-quarters of its territory. Partly destroyed by British and American air raids in 1944, Soviet troops in the bloody Battle of Budapest (ranking only behind the sieges at Leningrad and Stalingrad for loss of life) almost finished the job. Subsequently controlled by Soviet troops, Hungary became a member of the Warsaw Pact under the orbit of the Soviet Union. The Hungarian Revolution of 1956, emanating from a peaceful student protest spontaneously joined by others, disaffected with communist rule, saw a brutal put-down, with Soviet tanks sent in to quell the revolt. This alienated many who previously had been sympathetic to the USSR. Hungary's decision to open its border with Austria in 1989 was the first crack in the Iron Curtain, and one of the first parts of the chain of events which led eventually to the fall of communism throughout Eastern Europe and the USSR. Memento Park, on the outskirts of the city, contains many relics and statues of Budapest's communist period.

Today Budapest receives twenty million tourists a year and is ranked as the most liveable city in Central and Eastern Europe, and as the seventh most idyllic city in all of Europe. Its beauty and friendliness are unforgettable, and with its unique blend of old world charm and new world dynamism, Budapest is sure to take your heart.

Yellow Mountain

Anhui's Treasure

Of all the notable mountains in China, Yellow Mountain (Huang Shan) found in the south of Anhui province, is one of its treasures. Originally known as Yi Shan it was renamed Huang Shan in 747 AD in recognition of the legendary Huang Di, the reputed ancestor of the Chinese people that made magic pills for immortality in this very spot.

Transportation

Huangshan City's transportation is efficient. Upgraded airlines, railways, highways and the city transportation expedite travel.

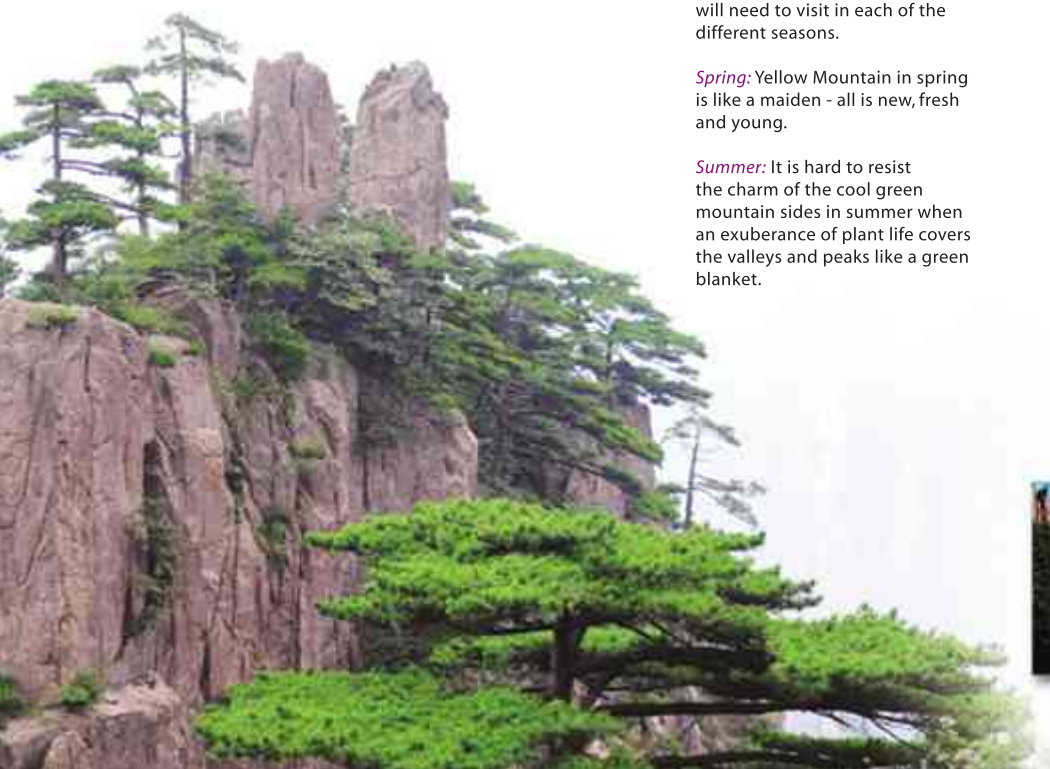
Natural Beauty

Yellow Mountain can boast not only of its magnificence but also of its abundant resources and great variety of zoological species, for which it has been listed as a World Natural and Cultural Heritage Site.

Each of the four seasons on Yellow Mountain has their respective beauty but even this can vary from day to day thanks to variations in the weather, light and shade as clouds pass overhead and even around you at various altitudes. These endless changes add to the wonder of the landscape. To appreciate the mountain fully, you will need to visit in each of the different seasons.

Spring: Yellow Mountain in spring is like a maiden - all is new, fresh and young.

Summer: It is hard to resist the charm of the cool green mountain sides in summer when an exuberance of plant life covers the valleys and peaks like a green blanket.



Autumn: Autumn on the mountain is colorful due to the blue sky, white clouds, red maples and yellow fruits.

Winter: The snowy mountain is like a crystal palace. Though winter lasts a long time, it is temperate on the mountain. A poem has it that Yellow Mountain is beautiful all year round but with the winter scenery being the best.

Four Wonders of Yellow Mountain

1. Strange Pines: View thousands of century old pine trees that take root on the clefts of rugged mountain terrain.
2. Incongruous Stones: Throughout the mountain observe the ancient steles that are the trademark of the mountain.
3. Sea of Clouds: Take a look above at the parade of clouds that will capture your imagination.
4. Hot Springs: Pamper yourself by bathing in these magical springs that are believed to have curative properties.

Food

Huang Shan food is known as Hui cuisine with more than a hundred year's history. Hui is one of the eight major cuisines of China. Local snacks include Fried Odorous Bean Curd, Yellow Crab Shell and for the courageous, Stir-fried Pond Snail.

Nightlife

Yilin Ge Tea House, Huang Shan International Hotel Dancery and 9 C Bar are just a few of must visit locations after dark.

Indie

Jamie Lydell – Compass (2010)

The fifth studio album for the British singer is already promising to be the talk of the town among lovers of underground tunes. Produced by Beck, this album is more than the eclectic typical indie record. From R'n'B to hard rock tracks, this successfully experimental album is beautifully painted by the singer's prodigious voice.

Rap, Reggae

Nas and Damian Marley – Distant Relatives (2010)

Distant Relatives in an explosive mixture of one of the most cherished sons of reggae Damian Marley and the rap guru Nas. The result is a harmonious union between the artists, creating a blasting activist album with powerful lyrics and a cry for a humanitarian Africa. Produced by the Damian's elder brother, Steven Marley, it counts with the participation of Joss Stone and Dennis Brown, among others.

Rock

The Rolling Stones – Exile on Main Street: Deluxe Edition (2010)

The Rolling Stones are rock titans, one of the world's most famous bands. Without needing any form of introductions, the band released the deluxe edition of the 1972 album Exile on Main Street, perhaps one of the most loved ones ever released by the Stones. Not rich in their biggest hits, the album is great as whole and it's now a musical biography of their life as rock masters.

Soundtracks

Glee – The Music Volume 3 (2010)

The album features 20 new songs from the TV series that soon became a tremendous hit, with thousand of fans worldwide. This matured version of their classics includes the whole cast and the special appearance of guest star performers.

CLASH OF THE TITANS

An Epic Take on Ancient Myths

Remaking the 1981 stop-animation classic, "Clash of the Titans" takes great advantage of computer-spurred developments in special effects and continues the recent cinematic trend of envisioning fantastical myths and worlds. Opening with a female voice-over (reminiscent of Galadriel's introduction to "The Fellowship of the Ring"), the film takes us into the lurid, sensational, absurdly melodramatic world of Ancient Greek mythology. Inter-generational conflict, murder, ambition, monstrosity, rivalry and lust commingle like a post-watershed episode of "Dallas", or a Mafia clan war with added sexy bits. (Perhaps fortunately, Oedipus doesn't appear).

From Greek mythology Western civilisation, of course, derives many cultural roots. "Clash of the Titans" is set in the Greek city of Argos, where a war is about to explode between man and the gods. We are introduced to the three Olympians who battled the Titans long ago: the brothers Zeus (Liam Neeson), Poseidon (Danny Huston), and Hades (Ralph Fiennes). Hades provided the means of defeating the Titans with his creation, the Kraken. After the Titans' defeat, Zeus created humans and ruled them while Poseidon ruled the sea, but Hades, having been deceived by Zeus, was forced to rule the Underworld. Zeus and Poseidon gain power from the prayers of humans, but Hades learns he can derive power from another source: fear.

Featuring an all-star cast and mythological creatures like the winged horse Pegasus and Medusa, whose glance turns people to stone, "Clash of the Titans" is an epic tale which reintroduces the splendour of Greek mythology to modern cinema.

Temple of Compassion

Lighten Your Soul

In times of soul-searching, and when it comes to thank their ancestors for their lives, most Chinese people rely on the various Buddhist temples spread all over town. The Temple of Compassion is the main Zen Buddhist temple in Tianjin, offering pieces of peace and quiet.

Built during the Shun Zhi Period (1643-1661) of the Qing Dynasty, the temple quickly became notorious in Tianjin for the sacrifices often offered to the bones of the Tang Dynasty Buddhist monk Xuang Zang, namely his skull. This relic is presently at the Patna Museum in India. Xuang Zang was a very prominent scholar at his time for improving and intensifying the connections between spiritual China and India. He would later become the source of inspiration for the great classic Journey to the West.

Near the river and located in a peaceful, broad square, the temple is never too crowded to the point of making visitors feel discomfort. Divided in halls, the first thing you'll encounter with is certainly the most important. The Heavenly Kings Hall is one of the favourite destinations to pray, to centre, to become united with ones faith and simply let worries flow away. The hall has four corners: in the middle believers worship Maitreya, in the other end stands the statue of Dharmapalas Skanda, in the east and west the Four Heavenly Kings.

Whether you're a Buddhist or not, this place excels for the peace of mind it offers, a true path to zen.
